LCGS MEETINGS

September 16, 2014 – Deanna Egeland Dowell:

Finding your ancestors in Norway.

Deanna Egeland Dowell has been researching her Norwegian ancestors since 1976. She grew up in the homestead lands of North Dakota around chuckling Norwegian accents and home-style fiddle music. She loves to hear that Norse-NoDak dialect even to this day....but she can't speak a word of Norwegian.

Genealogy is her passion. Her mentor – where she finally learned there was a system in finding her family ancestry – insisted on concise analysis, detailed input, and undisputable sources. She presents her subject with those learned lessons in mind.

PLEASE NOTE.... Due to the remodeling of the PUD meeting room where we regularly attend our meetings in September and October, our meeting location HAS CHANGED! We will be meeting at St. John's Lutheran Church, 2190 Jackson Hwy, Chehalis, WA 98532.

Her numerous trips to Salt Lake have turned brick walls into roaring floods. Her first trip to Norway proved that it's more fun seeing the beautiful countryside than to research inside a dusty building on a sunny day. She constantly learns of new sites on the internet to support the clues and mysteries of family research.

Deanna has the highest mentor level in the Sons of Norway Cultural Genealogy Program and has spoken and taught ancestry research in the Olympic Peninsula for the last decade, including her own "I AM NORSK" Genealogy Seminar at Oslo Lodge in Bremerton.

Her goal for her presentation is to share hints and helps in finding your ancestors in Norway.

Meeting is at 7 pm with doors open at 6:30 pm at St. John's Lutheran Church, 2190 Jackson Hwy, Chehalis, WA 98532

October 21, 2014 –Roy Wilson, Honorary Chief and a Spiritual Leader of the Cowlitz Tribe, will return to talk to us about the Cowlitz Tribe.

Roy's Indian name is Itswoot Wawa Hyiu meaning "bear who talks much" and how we loved listening to him talk about the Cowlitz people! Roy is an enrolled member of the federally recognized Cowlitz Indian Tribe. He has Cowlitz, Chinook, Yakama, and Iroquois blood. His credentials are extensive. Bring your questions a guest for an enjoyable evening. Roy will bring his books to sell after the presentation ends.

Meeting is at 7 pm with doors open at 6:45 pm at St. John's Lutheran Church, 2190 Jackson Hwy, Chehalis, WA 98532

Looking Forward....

At the September meeting, we will be appointing an election committee. Please consider supporting your society by being a part of the election committee or running for an office.

Washington State Library Budget Cuts ~Obituary Lookups Cut - Hours Reduced~

Due to budget and staff reductions, the Washington State Library will discontinue its obituary lookup service effective June 16. The library suggests these options for accessing obituaries and other genealogical information in Washington state newspapers. Information about finding Washington obituaries using existing resources online can be found at <http://www.sos.wa.gov/library/ObituaryResources.aspx>

Interlibrary Loan

www.sos.wa.gov/library/libraries/interlibrary.aspx

The Washington State Library lends out its microfilmed newspaper collection through interlibrary loan. You can submit an interlibrary loan request at your local library. When we receive that request, we will send the microfilm to your library for you to search. Every box of microfilm is listed in our online catalog.

If you have any questions about which newspapers cover the area you are researching, contact us through the Ask-A-Librarian link on the website, and we'd be happy to help.

County Genealogical Societies of Washington State

www.wasgs.org/cpage.php?pt=11 Many of the county genealogical societies in this state will do obituary lookups for a small fee. You will need to contact them directly with any inquiries.

Association of Professional Genealogists

www.apgen.org/ You can search this web site for a professional researcher by name, location or research specialty.

Visit the Library in Person

Customers are welcome to visit the library in person and search for obituaries themselves. However, the library hours and phone hours are reduced from 8-5 Monday-Friday to 12-5 Monday-Friday. Library personnel strongly recommend that you call ahead before your visit. If you have any questions about these changes, please feel free to contact the library. Questions and comments should be directed to Rand Simmons, Washington State Librarian, at rand.simmons@sos.wa.gov or phone 360-570-5585

The National Genealogical Society in partnership with FamilySearch proudly announces the release of The Federal Census-An Historical Overview. Washington State Genealogy Conference

By Sandi Gaffney

I recently attended the conference and came away so many great ideas I want to share a few. One was on getting the most out of Ancestry.com. The most important one I never think to use, Learning Center and Wiki. She also talked about the free stuff. A lady in the audience said that with AARP you could get a 30 % discount, so I Googled it, no go. As a packrat I went digging through the last few months and finally found it in the website, <http://discounts.aarp.org/offer/index/offerId/707823/>. I called the toll free number and saved a hundred dollars on a year subscription, the cost of the seminar.

Josh Taylor was the keynote speaker; he is involved with PBS's Genealogy Roadshow and NBC's Who Do You Think You Are? He is not only easy to look at but his topics are interesting. He talked about using the Web to find sites to search and keeping a log of your research. He said sourcing is important and to use words that will allow you and the next person to find that same information. He also talked of ways to get the younger generations involved.

I learned the use of timelines to practically write your story. How history played a part in our ancestors lives. The use of organizations they may have belonged to, in my case the Order of Runeberg.

I have been looking for a couple of obituaries from Walla Walla, Washington for a couple of years. The years of death are fairly recent 1960 to 1964. I had checked Newspapers.com and the newspaper archives with the local library, no luck. I decided I would google Walla Walla Union Bulletin just for kicks; they have a Facebook page, so I messaged them. They responded with check the Penrose Library at Whitman College. I checked the website and since I have no immediate plans to go there wine tasting I emailed the request. I had the copies within a half an hour. Patience is a big word when it comes to finding information about your ancestors.

Once again I say join a society or group doing genealogy and go to a seminar. Some are close and relatively inexpensive and others can be costly.

To have a sense of history one must consider oneself a piece of history ... Alfred Zabin

'I stole them from a graveyard'

By Dan Tilkin KOIN 6 Published: January 22, 2014, 8:21 am

SELLWOOD, Ore. (KOIN) – Chris Kelley just moved out of the house he owns in Sellwood and moved into a friend's house. Kelly's backyard looks different now than it did a few weeks ago.

Among the plantings and the shrubs were headstones and grave markers Kelley allegedly stole from the Rebekah Community Cemetery in Wasco County, near the eastern

Christopher Kelley is accused of stealing gravestones from the Rebekah Community Cemetery near Dufur, Oregon and placing them in the backyard of his home in Sellwood. (Dec. 2013, PPB)

Oregon town of Dufur.

There was Edwin Albaugh, an Oregon pioneer who was 29 when he died in 1891. Oley Brown was only 8 when he died in 1905.

When Edwin Quinn died in 1885, he was only 2. The back of his marker is inscribed: "Tread softly, for an angel band doth guard the silent dust, And we can safely leave our boy, our darling, in their trust." His 4-month-old brother, Little Will, died in 1893.

All their gravestones were found in Chris Kelley's yard, investigators said.

But they wouldn't have found them, at least not yet, if Tom Illk hadn't called police.

"I've known Chris all my life," Illk told KOIN 6 News. Kelley, who has been a TriMet bus driver for 20 years, invited Illk to his house a few months ago and said he saw three gravestones in Kelley's yard.

Christopher Kelley, Dec. 2013 (Multnomah County Sheriff's Office) "I said, 'Chris, where did you get this?' and he pulled me aside, not wanting the neighbors to overhear, 'I took 'em.'" He said Kelley told him he went to eastern Oregon to get rocks for his garden.

"He says, 'I stole them from a graveyard,'" Illk said.

He said he told Kelley, 53, to take them back, but a month later he said the gravestones were still there — plus one more.

"If I hadn't done this, his back yard would have been full of them," Illk said. "I know that, I know that in my heart. So I felt that was the only way after pleading with him to stop."

Wasco County Sheriff Deputy Tim Hall traveled to the cemetery and found "several graves sites with missing headstones," his affidavit states.

Barb Thomas, who is in charge of the cemetery, gave Hall plot maps. He learned there was no record of whether the headstones had just gone missing or had been missing for years, court documents state. Thomas confirmed to KOIN 6 News the thefts had happened but declined to speak about the matter citing privacy concerns for the families involved.

Hall used the website findagrave.com and located photos of all the headstones that were reportedly discovered on Kelley's property, court records show.

The secret indictment filed Nov. 15, 2013 reveals Kelley "unlawfully and knowingly" stole the gravestones between July 1 and July 31, 2013. Each headstone is valued at $1,000 or more, court documents state.

Portland police arrested Kelley, but he's facing charges in Wasco County for four felony counts of first-degree theft and four counts of abusing a memorial to the dead. Anyone convicted of abuse of a memorial to the dead could face a $50,000 fine and restitution.

His attorney, Daniel E. Russell, entered a not guilty plea to all counts. Kelley's next court date is scheduled for January 27, 2014. Russell has not returned calls from KOIN 6 News seeking comment.

When KOIN 6 News tried to speak with Kelley at the house where he's now living, the only thing he said was, "I'd really rather pass." His unnamed friend told KOIN 6 News to leave his property.

Until after the case winds its way through the legal system, TriMet cannot take any action against him. He remains behind the wheel of a bus.

KOIN 6 News reporter Brent Weisberg contributed to this report.

Man admits stealing gravestones

By KOIN 6 News staff Published: January 27, 2014, 4:00 pm

PORTLAND, Ore. (KOIN) — A bus driver admitted he stole gravestones from an Oregon pioneer cemetery in Wasco County in late 2013 and was placed on two years probation. Christopher Kelly pleaded guilty on Monday morning, to theft and abusing memorials to the dead.

A number of gravestones from the Rebekah Community Cemetery near the eastern Oregon town of Dufur were found in the backyard of his Sellwood home after his friend saw them and called police.

Along with the probation, Kelly must perform 200 hours of community service.
